

 $\frac{4}{4}$

The Heights Primary School Year 4 Parent Planner: Spring 1 Week 3

Dear Parents/Carers

☆

☆

This week our themes are: Ramans

English The children will continue to read Kensuke's Kingdom by Michael Marpurgo and then have a go at writing in the style of Marpurgo. They will be creating a timetable for a day on board the Peggy Sue and also write a diary entry in role as the main character, Michael. At the end of the week they will predict what they think will happen next in the story and write the next part of the story. Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Tapic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics	колиль style of Morpurgo. They will be creating a timetable for a day on board the Peggy Sue and also write a diary entry in role as the main character, Michael. At the end of the week they will predict what they think will happen next in the story and write the next part of the story. Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics	English	The children will continue to read Kensuke's Kingdom by a day on board the Peggy Sue and also write a diary entry in role as the main character, Michael. At the end of the week they will predict what they think will happen next in the story and write the next part of the story. Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics entry in role as the main character, Michael. At the end of the week they will predict what they think will happen next in the story and write the next part of the story. Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today!		style of Morpurgo. They will be creating a timetable for
of the week they will predict what they think will happen next in the story and write the next part of the story. Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		a day on board the Peggy Sue and also write a diary
Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		entry in role as the main character, Michael. At the end
Maths Linking in with our History topic, the children will be learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		of the week they will predict what they think will happen learning all about Roman Numerals. Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		next in the story and write the next part of the story.
Topic The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics	Maths	Linking in with our History topic, the children will be workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		learning all about Roman Numerals.
workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics	Topic	The children have thoroughly enjoyed their Roman cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		workshop this morning. They have been gladiators and servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		role played a gladiator fight with a roaring audience write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		cheering them on! They also took on the role of Greek thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		servants teaching rich Roman children how to read and metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		write in Latin. The children sorted coins into what they
Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		thought were real and replica and wrote curse tablets on two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		metal strips which they then rolled up to throw in a of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		Spring. We will be spending a lot of time over the next about the Romans and their impact on our lives today! In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		two weeks talking about what we have learnt from each
In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics		of these activities and piecing together what we know about the Romans and their impact on our lives today!
1		In Art the children will be looking at Roman mosaics
and then having a go at colouring their own mosaics.		and then having a go at colouring their own mosaics.
In computing we will be using our new Lego robots and		In computing we will be using our new Lego robots and in R.E. our focus will be on what makes a good leader.		in R.E. our focus will be on what makes a good leader.
Our focus in PSHE is on Dreams and Goals.		Our focus in PSHE is on Dreams and Goals.

Mrs Thomas

☆☆☆☆☆☆

☆